GOOD GRASS, STRONG ROADS

Healthy vegetation along the roadside is one of the simplest and most cost-effective ways to protect our rural roads.

Spraying chemicals that kill grass and farming right up to the road edge is harmful to our municipal assets.

This can result in:

- Erosion and Washouts
- More grading, more Gravel, more cost
- Soft edges create Safety hazards
- Damaged roads mean higher maintenance costs paid by all ratepayers.

Grass roots hold soil in place, protecting road edges from wind and water erosion.

Vegetation reinforces the shoulder so it doesn't break down when vehicles drive close to the edge.

Grass slows runoff and helps water soak in – reducing washouts and flooding.

Vegetation acts as a natural filter and barrier, keeping valuable road materials in place and reducing dust.

Well-protected roads need less grading, less gravel, and less repair – saving money for everyone.

Please help by:

- Maintaining healthy grass along road edges
- Avoiding spraying that kills roadside vegetation
- Leaving a grass buffer – don't farm or disturb right up to the road
- Thinking long-term – for the good of our community
- Using Truck Routes
